

Disclaimer

Friday, 04 April 2008

Last Updated Thursday, 08 May 2008

This site contains simple and subjective opinions and advice. It is intended to be useful in helping to learn about, and find new places to visit. However, the advice presented here may not be applicable to everybody and does not encourage or imply that you should visit the destinations described on the site. Remain vigilant and always consider your personal circumstances before taking action. It's always a good idea to check first with your own country's state department or government for current travel information, restrictions and warnings.